Ahmed lives in a joint family. There are lots of different types of families.

That's the best part. If everyone was the same, the world would be a boring place.

Sometimes people are rude about Chacha, because Chacha is different.

Get
a wife!

Not everyone understands that being different is ok.

Ahmed wishes they did because his chacha is the very best in the world.
He buys him ice cream soda...

...and takes him for camel rides on the beach.

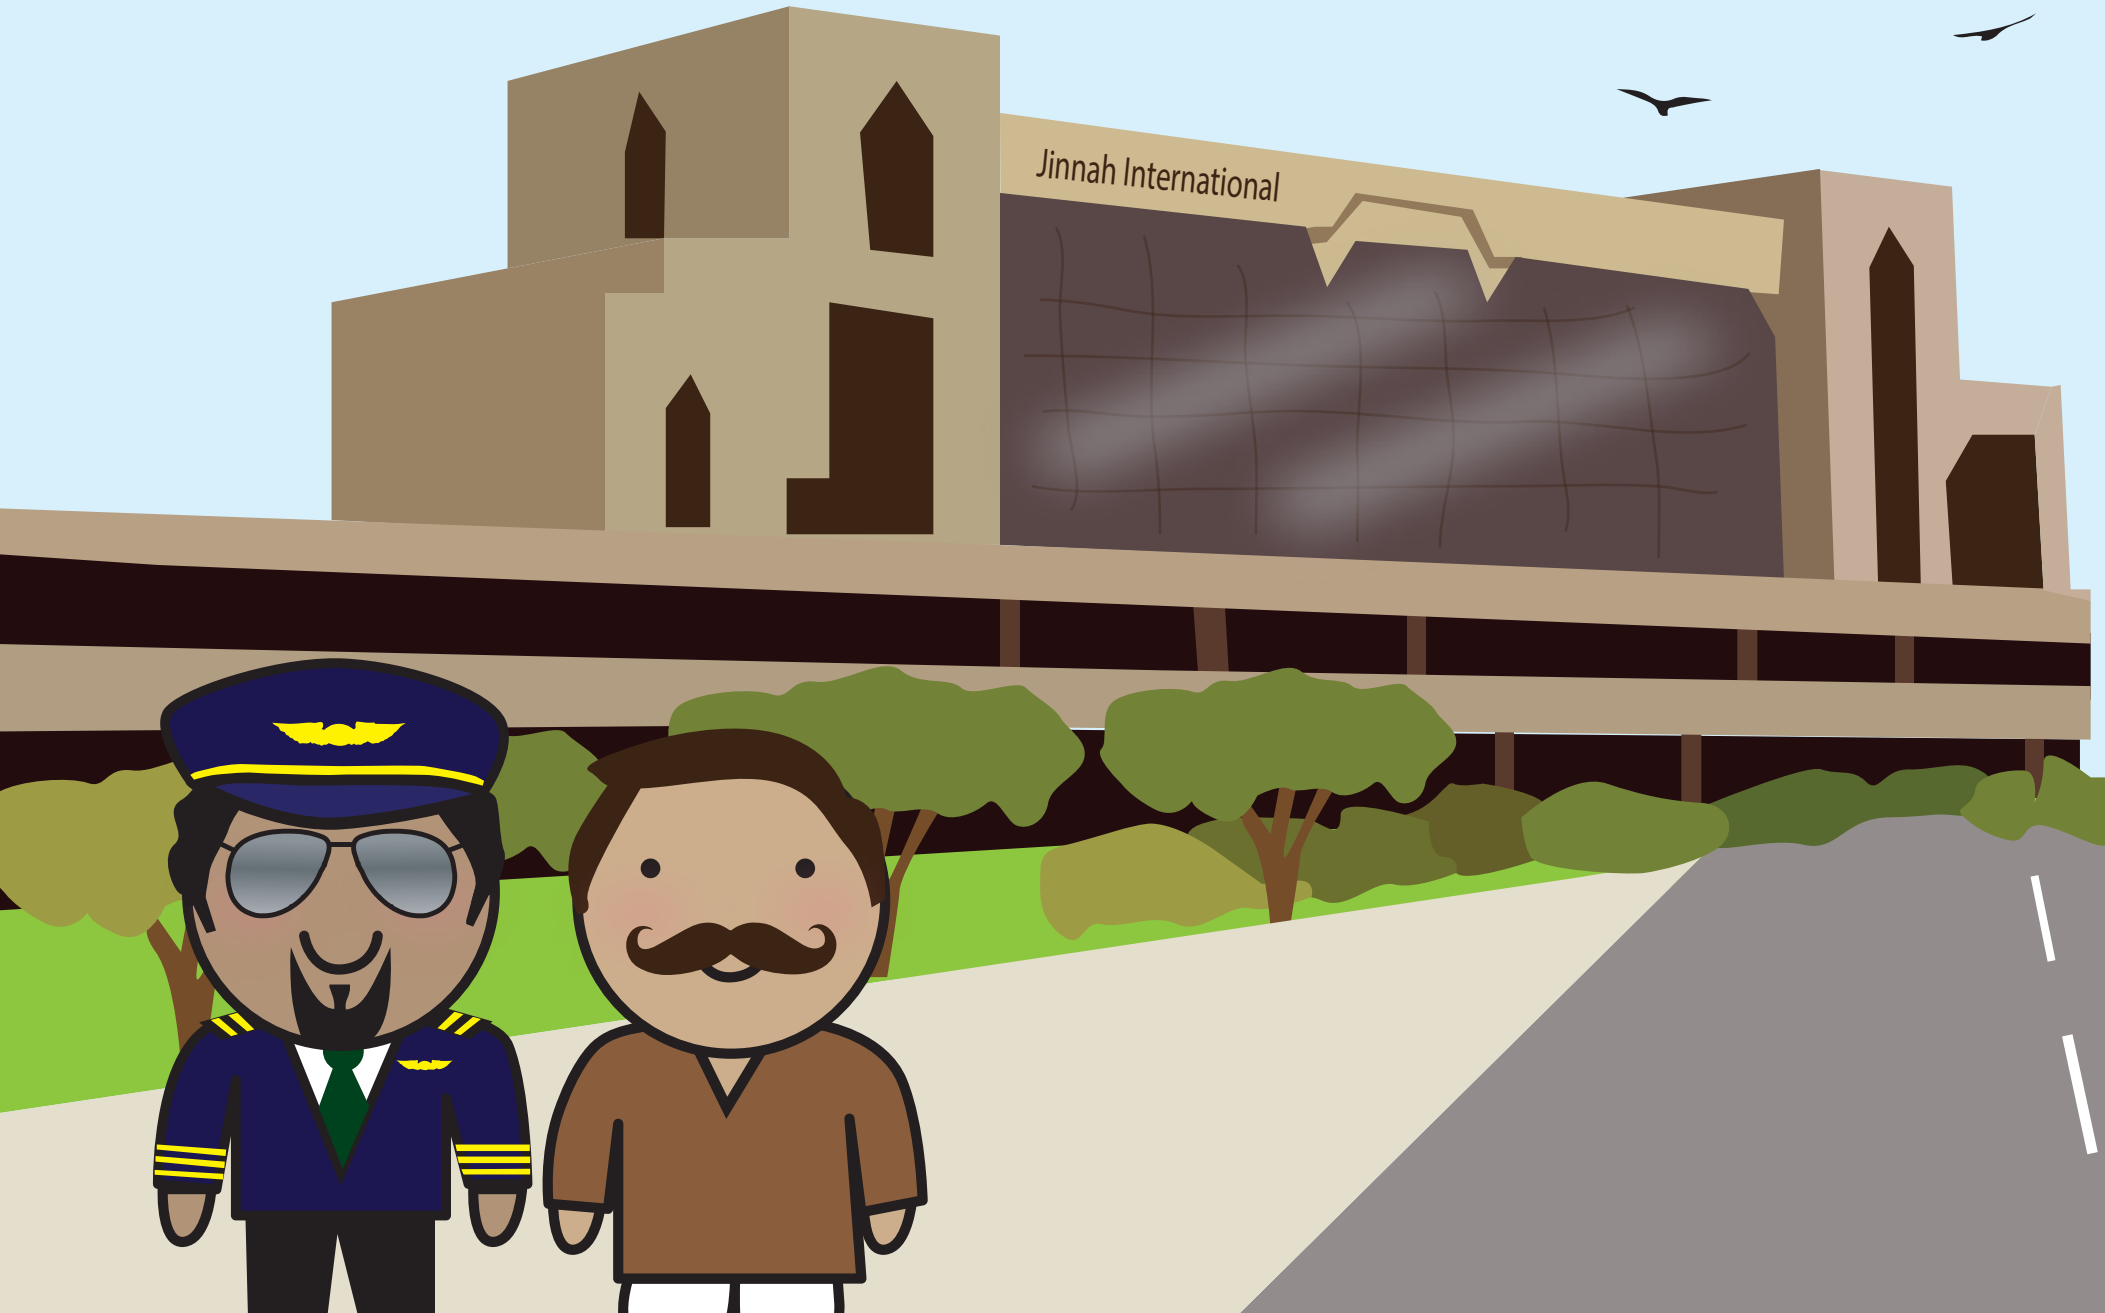

People think Chacha is different because he's gay.

That doesn't change anything, especially not how much fun they have together.

Chacha has a boyfriend called Uncle Faheem, he is a pilot.
Ahmed wants to be a pilot when he grows up too!

Sometimes Uncle Faheem lets Ahmed wear his hat, that makes him feel very special.

Ahmed doesn't understand when people say
That only men and women can love each other.
Because everyone can see how much
Chacha and Uncle Faheem love each other.

How can you control who you love anyway?

The way Ahmed's mother and father love each other is the same way Chacha and Uncle Faheem love each other.

Love belongs to everyone.
